

Non-accountability Society

I enter this subject thinking about a huge number of people that give no thought to their spiritual or moral status. In particular many who represent us in government and also people of the Media.

When confronted their return is lies, lies, and more, lies; later to save face more of the same. However, when confronted and no diversion can be used they attack the face of accountability without any sense of shame. They never give thought to the possibility of repentance.

It is in this regard that I think of the parable of the talents. If you have never read this part of the Bible I will explain. There was a master that was going on an extended journey and gave talents to several of His servants to invest. He gave to each according to their ability. One 5, one 2, and another 1. When the master returned and called an accounting. The one servant who was given 5 gained 5 more. Next the servant given 2 gained 2 more. These two servants were rewarded greatly. Finally the servant given 1 (one) did nothing to honor his master. He was called a wicked lazy servant because this servant buried the talent and told the master he was afraid of Him. Therefore he tried to shift blame for the lack back on the master.

We know Christ was referring to Himself and the end time in the parable. His judgement on this servant was not unfair tying up that servant and throwing that servant out into the outer darkness where there is weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Each of us has been given some level of talent and the Lord will hold us to account. I especially think those given to the position of leadership are expected to honor the Lord with their talents. Politicians, teachers, law enforcement, and parents are a short example of leaders that should not bury talent for gain or to teach a perverted sense of truth. Especially not to pervert truth of God to fulfill some sort of self-righteous thought that defies the righteousness of God Our Lord and Savior. You cannot ignore your responsibility away by saying, "I don't believe". To those much is given much is required!

I found there is a secret to life in the Lord and that is having enough humility to repent as soon as our sin and self-righteous attitude is exposed to us. Here is the secret. Be quick to repent and ask the Lord for His salvation to receive His Holy Spirit as a witness of the world to come.

You will find our Lord will forgive over and over for stumbling if your repentance is honest and true!
